White Pine Is Diminishing.

Fast Disappearing All over the Country and Price Rising.

The position which the United States has held as a lumber producing nation has, perhaps, been due more to white pine than to any other wood. The timber of this valuable tree which has played a most important part in the material development of the nation is fast disappearing and now it is as costly as the finest American hardwoods.

Rev. Edward Everett Hale, the chaplain of the Senate, who has always taken an interest in forestry, deprecates the passing of the white pine as our foremost wood, and tells how in his own lifetime he has seen the day when the "masts of every vessel that sailed the Seven Seas were made of New England grown pine; while to-day very little white pine is out in New England big enough to furnish a good sized spar." He tells also, to illustrate the increasing cost of the wood, that he ordered a set of book shelves on which the cabinet maker made a price, and then asked whether they should be of mahogany or white pine.

The white pine production has shifted from New England to the Lake states, and Michigan is the leading lumber producing state for 20 years, from 1870 to 1890, with a supremacy based on white pine. In these decades the value of the white pine of Michigan, at less than the price of production, is not less than two billions of dollars, or nearly half as much again as the value derived from all the gold fields of California from their discovery in the late forties until the present. The rich forests of Michigan were once thought inexhaustible and were lumbered in a most reckless manner for years.

Suddenly the people awoke to the fact that the thoughtless destruction of the trees had thrown 6,000,000 of acres of the delinquent tax list. These white pine barrens point to the terrible penalty of wasting the forest resources which should have been the heritage of all future generations.

An idea of the increasing scarcity of white pine timber is given by the New York O. B. quotations, on a basis of carload lots. "Uppers" of the best grade, cost $97 to $114 a thousand board feet and the "selecs" or next lower grade cost $79.50 to $99.50. Men who are not yet middle aged remember the time when those grades could be purchased at $15 to $25 a thousand feet.
The present quotations on quartered white oak, which are $75 to $80, offers another basis of comparison which indicates the condition of the market for white pine.

The best stands of this timber now in this country are in scattered sections in Minnesota, New England and parts of Idaho. The species in Idaho is sometimes called silver pine. Some of the country's best white pine is found on the Indian reservations in Minnesota and Wisconsin and scattered stands are found in the States of Wyoming, Montana, Colorado, and one or two other states.

At the present rate of cutting the tree will soon be practically a thing of the past. The small stands in the National forests are inconsiderable, but they will be managed with the greatest conservation by the Government through the Forest Service, and through this method and practice of reforestation it may be hoped that the fine old tree will furnish timber for other generations.

Who Uses Hyomei?
The Best People in Norway Says Frank
Kimball. Guaranteed in Catarrhal Troubles.

No other remedy or treatment for catarrh has ever been so popular or made so many remarkable cures in Norway as Hyomei.

The best people attest its curative virtues, says Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes Drug Store, who are the local agents for Hyomei in which Hyomei was sold; to refund the money unless it gave satisfaction, was the best proof when it was introduced that it possessed unusual curative powers. Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes Drug Store, took all the risk of the treatment giving satisfaction, and left it to the purchasers to be the judge.

Later, when Hyomei was used and recommended by our well-known physicians and business men and their wives as a treatment that absolutely cured catarrh, no matter how serious or long standing, the sales rapidly grew and today there is no other remedy in Noyes Drug Store stock that has such a large and a sale.

The first breath of Hyomei's healing air kills all catarrhal poison.
Try Hyomei to-day on Frank Kimball's offer to refund the money if the treatment does not give you satisfaction. 46-47

A Deed of Kindness.
The bill was alive with merry boys and girls on a bright Saturday afternoon in winter. What fun it was indeed to coast swiftly down the icy slope, and what shouts of ringing laughter as the sleds flew down the hill.
Young and old seemed to be having the gayest time possible. Big boys on double-runners, with a crowd of little ones at their heels, with rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes, turned the sharp corner at the end of the hill, to shortly help drag the heavy sleds up to the top again.
The sun had almost set, and its rosy light filled the air with a glow of little light started to go home a man driving a large load of wood began to ascend the icy path. The sleds steered out of the way as the poor horse tried almost in vain to go on.
Suddenly he stopped, for he could go no further. The road was so slippery that in trying to walk his hind legs slipped from beneath him. The man seemed enraged, and began whipping the poor creature. As the horse could not go, the man struck him hard. Then a little girl, Amy by name, got off her sled and stepping up to the man said, politely, "Couldn't I help you with your horse, sir? The load of wood seems very heavy for him." The man looked very much surprised, but stopped immediately.
"Amy went up to the horse, patted his nose gently, and whispered kindly in his ear. A number of boys were taking a few of the logs off the cart, and transferring them to their sleds to drag up the hill.
Amy then led the horse along, for she was very gentle, and the noble creature was perfectly willing to obey her. The man walked along and really felt much ashamed, as he ought. At last they reached the top, and the boys put back the wood as the load was not too heavy for a level. As the children all bade each other good-night to go home, the man turned around, saying, "Many thanks to ye, my lady, and to the little girl who showed how to help her.
Which do you think was happier that night, the horse, or the little girl who belonged to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals?"

How to Tell Fresh Eggs.
The best way to tell a fresh egg is by the air bubble at the top. The fresher the egg, the larger the bubble. Look at eggs through a strong light, if they are perfectly clear they are fresh, if they have a dark spot in them they are not. A fresh egg must be examined very closely to discover the air bubble.
Hold it up to an egg tester, turn it around slowly and look close near the top of the large end. If the bubble looks as large as a quarter of an inch deep it is in most cases unfit for use for preserving as it is not perfectly fresh.
Procure a fresh newly laid egg and make yourself familiar with the position and size of the air bubble. You can always tell a fresh egg, as the longer you keep one the larger the bubble gets every day. A fresh egg has a somewhat rough shell, while the shell of a stale egg is somewhat smooth.
When cooked, the contents of a fresh egg stick to the shell and must be removed with a spoon, but with a stale egg the contents will be peeled off like the skin of an orange. It takes a longer time to boil a fresh egg hard than it does a stale one, and fresh eggs are more easily beaten into a froth than stale ones.
A fertile egg cannot be distinguished after it has been under the hen for a week, although experts do after the fourth day. It is very easy to distinguish a fresh egg by using an egg tester.
This kind of tester is made of a tester answer. Some can examine with the hands, shaded, with the light in front, and look through it, so to speak. There is no excuse for poultrymen being deceived as to the freshness of eggs if they exercise a little care and judgment.

$34,700; Where Is It?

Ten years ago, if the voters of the town of Norway had seen fit to apply the same business principles to the matter of building good roads that they apply to their private business, they would now have some good, permanent roads. The same thing can be truthfully said ten years from now unless a radical change is made from the present methods.

Is it good business to appropriate and expend $3,000 of road money to each year on the roads of this town and not make any permanent improvement? In fact many will tell you that the roads as a whole are in a worse condition than they were ten years ago.

Now this town has raised and expended on the roads and bridges in the last ten years $30,500, and in addition have raised and expended $2,100 on State road and received from the State $2,100, making a total of $34,700, and the town is no nearer to having a single mile of good permanent road than it was before a cent of that $34,700 was taken from the taxpayers and expended on the roads.

What will bring about a change? What have other towns done to make permanent roads?

The answer to these questions is a steam roller and a stone crusher.

I have before me twelve different letters from as many different towns and cities in this State, signed by the municipal officers, all testifying to the success attained in building roads with a steam roller. I will quote a paragraph from a letter signed by the selectmen of the town of Houlton in Aroostook county:

"We have tested this roller in all possible places, at all kinds of work and it has worked to our entire satisfaction. We have built our fine and substantial road this season thus has been built in this town in any five years before."

These letters can be seen at the ADVERTISER office.

The cost of a steam roller such as would be best adapted to the roads of this town would be $3,250; this is what is called a "10 ton" machine, but actually weighs 13½ tons.

A road roller and stone crusher go hand in hand; at the same time good roads can be made with gravel rolled down hard with a steam roller.

I am unable to tell you just what a stone crusher would cost. A man who has had experience in building roads in New Jersey says that a very successful method, and one that is much cheaper than crushed stone, is to use coarse gravel put in 18 to 24 inches deep, rolling it 4 or 5 times as every 6 or 8 inches should be rolled down. A New Jersey road built in this way resembled macadamized road and was so hard a crowbar could not be stuck into it.

Of the $34,700 expended on the roads in the last 10 years, if $3,250 had been expended on a steam roller, there would still be left over $31,450 a year for the 10 years for material and labor, and the town would now have a number of miles of something which could properly be called a road.

A steam roller can be operated at a total expense of $4.50 a day, including the wages of an engineer, coal and oil, and one hundred tons of stone or gravel can be laid thoroughly, and the roller could be used with economy on any road in town.

The steam roller would do away, to a large extent, with the expense incurred by the use of so many horses on a road machine which a good many claim is doing more harm than good to the roads.

It makes no difference who you have for road commissioners. You have now and have had in the past good men to look after the roads; they have done the best they could with a steam roller and crusher—the fault is not with them but with the men who pay the tax, their failure to provide the means.

The Norway board of trade has the matter of good roads under consideration and at the town meeting next March will present the matter to the taxpayers. In the meantime think the matter over, apply to it the same principles you would apply to the matter of repairing your house or barn, and believe that a steam road roller and stone crusher would be a matter of economy and not a matter of expense.

E. C. MURCH.

Injurious to the Eyes.

Do not make the mistake of supposing that brilliant lights are harmless except when looked at directly. As a matter of fact they are even more dangerous when so placed as to shine into the eyes sideways or from above, since the eye is less accustomed to receive bright light from such directions. In other words, light from such direction falls upon the outer parts of the surface of the retina, which, being less accustomed to receive bright light, are the more quickly injured by it. Cases are on record where persons working in the vicinity of bare lamps so placed have entirely lost the sight of one or both eyes.

What is the remedy? It is simple—never look at an unshaded lamp of any degree of brilliancy. Do not sit facing an electric or kerosene light unless it is protected by a shade. Never, in your own house, use a naked light. Use frosted bulbs or shades.

Shades may use up a portion of the light, but even then they will actually see better by what is left than you did by leaving the bare lamp to burn its image into your eye. In most cases, however, if you make the right selection, and arrange your lights properly, you will find that you will probably use even less candle-power than you did before.

As with the forests, so with mines, the petroleum measures, and the grazing lands, we should husband all useful things as a precious inheritance, not to be wasted as a greedy child devours its Christmas candy, but to be cherished, conserved and handed down to posterity with the constitution of the country and its great ideals. Of what use will be its constitution and ideals when the people are starving for lack of those bounteous gifts which we squander so ruthlessly?

Some of the newspapers are suggesting new mottoes to take the place of the time-honored "In God We Trust," which has been omitted from the newly minted gold coins. "God be with me till we meet again," would be appropriate, if not irrelevant.

The Paragraph Pulpit.

BY EDWIN A. RUMBALL.

A Modern Bible; when we have desired the word of God we have too frequently searched in books written hundreds of years ago. We think that God spoke once and has been dumb since. It is however only in the petty bigotries of man that the best things have an end. The gates of the Eternal are open day and night, and in every age there issue from its portals prophets and saviors with tidings of great joy to all people. Not only is the Story of David the word of God, but also the Story of Adam Bede; not only the New Testament but the modern newspaper. The only Bible that thousands read today is the newspaper.

It is easy to find fault with any form of literature, and doubtless "yellow journalism" deserves all the blame it gets; but the press is a large factor in moulding mankind for good. The leading articles have again and again made thoughtless men serious; its attitude to crime or sin, its efforts in raising sympathy for the oppressed and ignorant, all proclaim that much of the moral fiber of mankind is due to the works of the Eternal which through the newspaper have passed from man to man. The Word of God is not a newspaper any more than a Bible, but in the good words that come from the best of every man's life, we possess elements that are eternal, whether expressed in a leading article or a psalm. Much of the pure love, noble purpose and philanthropy, much of the heroism, high effort and success is due to the influence of the sacred books and journals that have been published within the last fifty years. The Word of God for each man is the word God speaks today; and the best each man says today is the Bible for today.

Learn to Eat.

Few People in Norway Really Know How

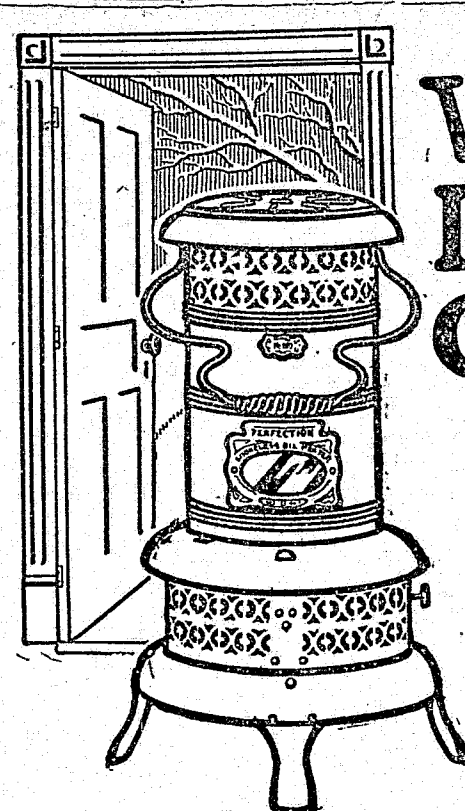

Slow eating will solve one-half the problem of ill health. Those who suffer already with indigestion and weak stomach can with care and a good sick stomach tablets restore their digestion to a healthy condition, so that they can eat what they want at any time without fear of distress or suffering.

After a few days' use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets, the headache, dizzy feeling, drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, nervousness, sleeplessness, distress after eating—all these symptoms of a weak stomach—will disappear, and perfect digestion and a good sick will show that the vital machinery is once more running smoothly.

Take a little Mi-o-na tablet before each meal so that it will stimulate the digestive juices and give strength to the stomach, and then it will take care of the food that is eaten, without indigestion and the unpleasant full feeling with which so many suffer after meals.

Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes Drug Store, has so much confidence in the power of Mi-o-na to cure indigestion and all stomach ills that he gives a guarantee with every 50-cent box to refund the money if the remedy fails to give satisfaction.

For Nervous, Over-worked and "Run Down" Women

Women in an exhausted, nervous state, due to over-work, continuous social functions or a general "run down" condition of health, often wonder why tonics and emulsions fail to benefit them. The reason is plain. Tonics and emulsions are good in their place, but they cannot build up the body until the nerves have been toned and quieted.

There's only one remedy that can restore health to women in this exhausted, nervous condition, because it acts directly upon the nerves.

Rexall

Americianitis Elixir

is the only remedy of its kind in existence. As its name implies, it's a specific for the peculiar exhausted nervous conditions resulting from the continuous rush and tension under which Americans live. This remedy fills an important gap in the line of medicines.

Rexall Americianitis supplies to the body just those elements which Nature cannot supply in sufficient quantities to meet the unnatural drain upon the nervous system.

Phosphorus in soluble form is the basis of this splendid nerve food. Thousands of women have been saved from nervous prostration by the prompt use of Rexall Americianitis. To all conditions of nervous derangement, exhaustion and debility it brings permanent relief.

PORTER.

Isaac Richardson of Cornish was arrested at Porter, Monday night, by D. P. uity Sheriff J. C. Ayer of Cornish, it being charged that he took two horses from the stable of Jerome W. Cole at East Parsonsfield that morning. Cole recovered his horses at Effingham, N. H.

It was not until 7 o'clock that Cole discovered his horses were missing, and Richardson had about two hours' start. He led the animals nearly all the way to Effingham and then borrowed a wagon and harness. One of the horses was harnessed into the vehicle and the other led behind. As requisition papers would have been necessary to take Richardson in Effingham, he was coerced or in some way enticed across the line by a Porter man and was then taken into custody. DESTROYS Hair Germs Recent discoveries have shown that falling hair is caused by germs at the roots of the hair. Therefore, to stop falling hair, you must first completely destroy these germs. Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula, will certainly do this. Then leave the rest to nature.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Formula with each bottle. Show it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says.

Recent discoveries have also proved that dandruff is caused by germs on the scalp. Therefore, to cure dandruff, the first thing to do is to completely destroy these dandruff germs. Here, the same Ayer's Hair Vigor will give the same splendid results.

STOW.
A mouse has been seen in this place, recently.
Marshall Smith is in very poor health, not able to work.
Mrs. O. P. Stevens visited at A. H. Seavey's at Harbor, recently.
The ground was white with snow the 14th, looking very much like winter.
Mrs. A. F. Wiley and Mrs. H. E. Jordan visited at Wilson Emery's, recently.
Mrs. Oldie Stevens and little daughter, Gladys, from South Windham are visiting at her home.
Mrs. Q. Stevens received a very pretty parlor clock from her brother in Baldwinville, Mass., recently.
Q. Stevens and John Hall had to get their hedges that were pastured up in David Bradley's pasture by the aid of a party of hunters from Westbrook have been stopping at B. Barbour's. The rainy weather prevented them from getting out much to get the deer they came for.
EAST STONEHAM.
Arthur Andrews is on the sick list.
Walter Butters is buying sheep for E. S. Bartlett.
Mrs. Fannie Bartlett is visiting friends in Portland.
Jonathan Bartlett lost two very nice horses the past week.
Rev. G. P. Fuller was at Frank McAllister's, Tuesday, the 13th.
Wilbur McAllister went to South Paris, Sunday, to work this winter.
Raymond McAllister, George Brown and Jack McAllister are shingling Fernando McAllister's barn.
A very good crop of apples in East Stoneham this fall. Fernando McAllister had 97 barrels. Frank McAllister had 36 and Jonathan Bartlett had 72 barrels. John Barker and Mrs. Frank McAllister went to Bethel, Wednesday, the 6th, to attend the funeral of Mr. Barker's father, Hastings Barker, formerly of Albany.
FRYEBURG.
Plumbers from Biddeford are putting in a steam heating plant at the Congregational parsonage.
Two teams driven by Frank Howe and Lloyd Stevens collided with considerable force on the street near the station. Mr. Howe was thrown out and considerably injured.
As B. T. Newman was going to his camp he met two fellows with guns coming out of the road leading from the main road to the shore of Lovewell's pond. On reaching T. L. Eastman's camp found it had been broken into. He then went to his own camp a little farther on and that, too, had been entered.
Loyalty to One's Town Loyalty to Self.
When one finds he is out of sympathy with his town, and can only say "good word for it" with an apology, he ought to get out. Many people fall into a sort of unconscious habit of growing. But it is a miserable habit. Such people make of themselves a dead weight, while of course they are making themselves particularly independent.
The individual who has about all he can do to get along under his own load, and he wants help and encouragement from those going his way, and who are identified with him in interest. So with the town. It has its interests to care for, and it needs all the pluck, all the energy, all the cooperation and helpfulness its citizens can provide and bring to bear. Every man is a part of his town.
Even when one embraces the fortunes, and in some measures at least takes to the character of the man. So loyalty to one's town is no more than loyalty to one's self; and this loyalty is in the line of all well shaped human nature.
Therefore it is right to say that the man who does not stand up for his own town is in some way dwarfed. There is something wrong about him. His fellows will pass this judgment upon him, and the chances are that while he will do the duty of others he will not escape making himself unhappy.

Guide-Boards.
When to Eat Fruit.
If people ate more fruit they would take less medicine and have better health. There is an old saying that fruit is gold in the morning and lead at night. As a matter of fact it may be gold at both times, but then it should be eaten on an empty stomach and not as a dessert when the appetite is satisfied. Fruit taken in the morning before the fast of the night has been broken is very refreshing, and it serves as a stimulus to the digestive organs as the Journal of Agriculture. A ripe apple or an orange may be taken at this time with good effect. Fruit to be really valuable as an article of diet should be ripe, sound and in every way a good quality, and if possible, it should be eaten raw.
For breakfast, most people would do better if they took some grapes, pears or apples—fresh fruit as long as it is to be had, and after that they can fall back on stewed prunes, figs, etc. If only fruit of some sort is used an important item in their breakfast, women would generally feel brighter and stronger, and would have far better complexions than is the rule at present.
Growing Old.
There are two ways of growing old. One is to live so happily and in touch with youth and progress so that years are as days. The other is to live the groggy life, all out of tune with youth, gridding the teeth upon age as an ugly child grinds his teeth upon a bitter pill he has been compelled to take.
Years don't make a man old. Time may frost the hair, a bit but it has no effect upon the heart. It is the worries of life that make men old. And what makes so much worry? It is either over what we have or have not and think we must have, or over the behavior of those dear to us.
He who lives in touch with youth, enjoying boys' fun and keeping in sympathy with boys' lives is buoyant with health and cheer and does not take life seriously enough to brood over worries.
Would we urge frivolity then? No. But there is too much sham seriousness that ages men as does the real. Dignity is a good thing to wear in company but a dangerous life companion. It gets a man by the collar and marches him down to old age at double quick. Dignity is a close relative of grouch. It makes man hate the laughter and cheer of youth, and in shunning youth our grouchiness grows old.
Some men and women with white hair and eighty years behind them are young in heart and a pleasant companion for young and old. Others at forty are bowed in body and spirit, and every step of the way because they have gotten out of touch with youth.
When She Goes into Society.
Wedding cards come thick and fast in the autumn, and etiquette governing their acknowledgment is so precise that there should be no excuse in making an error.
Invitations to a church service, unless the ceremony is to be a small one, require no answer when received, but under no circumstances, except that of mourning, should a call upon the parents be omitted within a fortnight after the wedding. If a call upon the parents supposing the invitations were issued in their names. If for any reason others, such as guardians or relatives, send out the invitations the visit should be made to them. The principal is that whoever was so courteous as to send the invitation should receive the return politeness—a call. If a widower should issue the wedding invitation, a woman receiving one posts her card with that of her husband's as an acknowledgment to the sender.
Reception cards require no previous acknowledgment, but are treated like any other invitation. A visiting card is left by those who are present at such an affair, and those who are unable to go post cards to be received on the date of the function. Of course if one is bidden to the breakfast, or the number of invitations to the house is small, these acknowledgments as soon as received. In this case, however, such requests are usually written by the bride or her parents, and are quite informal, so that the answer is a note written in the same style as the original card.
Whenever the engraved invitations bear the letters R. S. V. P. an answer must be made at once. This is sometimes done on cards of invitation to a reception that the hostess expects some of her many guests to provide for. Such a response should be made formally in the third person, for instance: "Mr. and Mrs. Jones accept with pleasure the invitation to the wedding reception at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Smith's which will be held on the 20th of December, 1907, at 8 o'clock in the evening." When there is a church wedding and no reception it is expected the bride will be called upon, when one knows where she is, unless "At Home" cards have been sent out and one has been omitted from the list. This is equivalent to declaring that the bride does not care for one's acquaintance. Before accepting this cut, however, one cannot care too much paid to be sure the omission was accidental and not designed, and in any case the parents should be called upon.
Cards announcing the wedding of a friend must always be acknowledged by sending visiting cards at once to those issuing the invitation, not to the bride. One calls upon the bride when she is "at home."
True courtesy and politeness does not delay in making simple and proper acknowledgments within the time specified, and failure to do so does one either ignorant or careless.
Brewster-Dana.
On Tuesday, Nov. 12th, Carrie Frances, daughter of Hon. Eben R. Dana of Curtis Corner, formerly of Locke Mills, was married to Carroll Henry Brewster of Bridgton. In 1893 Mrs. Brewster spent the summer in Bridgton village. Her devotion to her work, her pleasing manners and charming personality won for her many friends.
The Bridgton News says: "B. Frank Holt who started out this fall to engage in lumbering operations at Oxford in company with the Newcomb, has sold his share in the business to George W. Newcomb, who together with his son, will continue the business. Mr. Holt has returned temporarily to Bridgton."
A Canadian newspaper, in explaining that Thanksgiving day in Canada is nearly a month ahead of the Thanksgiving holiday in the United States, says the Canadians are glad they live in Canada that they can't wait.
